TUESDAY, FEB. 2, 1858.

Quite a fluttering has recently been caused in introduced into the House by Mr. Harris, of Illinois. It proposes that, hereafter, all clerks and as awaits the orders of European monarchs, we are messengers in the Departments shall be appointed from actual residents of the several States and Ter- sufficient power to enforce the laws throughout our ritories, in the proportion of their representation in Congress, the District of Columbia being reckoned as one Congressional district. When vacancies occur in any way, the head of the Department is required to select persons to fill them from applicants in the Congressional district in the county having the smallest number in office, and so on; and if there be no applicant from such district, or none qualified for the place, the representative from that district is to be notified of the fact, and, if no suitable person is recommended within thirty days, then the vacancy is to be filled by the head of the Department.

The number of clerkships in the Executive Departments at Washington is about 1,500, and it has long been a matter of complaint that they have not been distributed by any means fairly among the States-Virginia, Maryland, and the District, for example, bearing off the lion's share. This inequality has been rendered obvious by a statement which has been prepared showing the number of incumbents from each State, together with the number of Representatives to which each is entitled. From such a comparative statement, it would be gleaned that Maine, with 6 Representatives, has 50 clerkships; New Hampshire, with 3, has 40; Massachusetts, with 11, has 81; Rhode Island, with 2. has 15: Connecticut with 4-38: New York with 33-189; New Jersey with 5-42; Pennsylvania with 1-19: Maryland wi 8-41; South Carolina with 6-26; Georgia with 8-17; Alabama with 7-18; Mississippi with 5-16; Louisiana with 4-33; Ohio with 21-45; Kentucky with 10-39; Tennessee with 10-30; Indiana with 11-26; Illinois with 9-10; Missouri with 7-7; Arkansas with 2-3; Michigan with 4-11; Florida with 1-13; Texas with 2-6; Iowa with 2-3; Wisconsin with 3-7; California with 2-24; and the District of Columbia with none has

A statement like this can, of course, only approx imate to the exact facts; but the figures are, probably, near enough to the truth for comparison.

Another statement has been prepared, which estimates the aggregate of Federal patronage in all offices in the Executive gift at about $5,500,000, giving each of the 235 Representatives about $23,-000, the District being allowed the pro rata of one Representative. According to this statement, some of the States are now receiving an excess of patronage to amounts as follows:

Maine $88,000, New Hampshire $40,000, Massa chusetts $122,000, Rhode Island $3,000, New York $282,000, Delaware $3,000, Maryland $143,000, Louisiana $175,000, Arkansas $8,000, Michigan $8,000, Florida $54,000, Texas $35,000, Iowa $31,-000, Wisconsin $2,000, California $444,000, District of Columbia $337,000.

On the other hand, per contra, some States are re ceiving less patronage than they are entitled to, as Vermont $41,000, Connecticut $20,000, New Jersey $23,000, Pennsylvania $125,000, Virginia $44,-000, North Carolina $116,000, South Carolina $31,-000, Georgia $127,000, Alabama $70,000, Mississippi $73,000, Ohio $363,000, Kentucky $166,000, Tennessee $179,000, Indiana $180,000, Illinois $138,000, Missouri $128,000.

Still another statement has been prepared, showing that the States which voted against Buchanan of the local department of the Memphis Avalanche. are-wonderful to tell!-in receipt of about $100,-000 more than those which voted for him!

Late in the last session of the last Congress, a jority of a hundred a motion to lay it on the table failed, and that it was referred to a select committee. It may fail in the Senate, but will, probably, become a law. The President is said to favor it. In making up the "Blue Book," just published, special pains were taken to get the actual residence of each incumbent when appointed to office. Should Mr. Harris's bill become a law, it will extend to the Representatives of States opposed to the Administration some voice in filling clarkships, and the provision may win their votes for it. Under existing arrangements and positions, how many clerkships in the Executive departments could all the Representatives of all New England obtain?

MINNESOTA .- Mr. Douglas's bill for the admission of Minnesota into the Union as a State, reported to the Senate on Tuesday last, provides that Minnesota shall be admitted into the Union on equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatever. It also provides that the State shall be entitled to one representative in Congress, and such additional representatives as the population shall show that they are entitled to, according to the present rates of representation, leaving the House to ascertain the number when the full returns of the census shall be received, presuming that the residue of returns will be received by the time that the bill shall become a law. So far as ascertained, the population is 136,-461; there being seven entire counties and a part of another to hear from.

There is likely to be a good deal of delay in the passage of this bill, in consequence of the absence of the signatures of more than half the members of the convention from the copy of the constitution presented to Congress, and also from some uncertainty respecting the right of the new State to three Representatives, the number she has sent on to Washington, and perhaps on other accounts beside. To be sure, the strongest of these reasons is not insurmountable, but the weakest affords an effectual rallying point to faction. All things considered, it would not be astonishing if Minnesota should be held outside of the Union for another year.

THE INCREASE OF THE ARMY .- The bill now under consideration in the United States Senate, providing for an increase of our national military establishment, is strongly opposed. There seems to be a determination upon the part of Senators from both sections of the Union to defeat any proposition to place our army upon a more efficient footthe Executive Departments at Washington by a bill | ing. Without the smallest inclination to see the republic burdened with such a large military force anxious that the Federal government shall have territories. That the present establishment is unequal for that paramount duty is evident, to our humiliation. What regular troops we have are overworked by the growing necessities of the service upon our frontiers. A temporary force of volunteers might serve for the reduction of the rebellious Mormons, but it would have been far better for the prestige of this government, if, when the first defiant note was heard at Salt Lake, an ample force of regulars had been ready to assert the supremacy of our national laws and punish the guilty without delay. The emergencies of the time demand that Senators should rise superior to all factious considerations, and recognize the imperative necessity of giving the Federal Government power to compel

> A St. Louis contemporary, commenting on the weather, says:

> Nobody here need be told that the winters in this region have for the last three years been uncommonsevere, and that the summers have been as re markably mild as the winters have been as re-markably mild as the winters have been inclement. Such a fact oversets the theory that the temperature is so distributed throughout a term of twelve or eighteen months, that there is about the same amount of heat and cold during each successive pe-riod. The experience of the last three years is no warrant that the great deficiency of warmth in win-ter will be made up by as great an excess of heat the next summer.

We really don't see why it is not, as far as it goes. 6-195; Virginia with 13-232; North Carolina with the last three years been uncommonly severe," The fact that "the winters in this region have for whilst "the summers have been as remarkably mild And the dew-drops of glory besprinkled each fold, as the winters have been inclement," so far from As the starlight was gleaming through tresses of gold. oversetting the theory of the equal distribution of Ol how fondly I prayed that we never might part, temperature within equal periods, gives, it seems As I prest her all trembling with biss to my heart! to us, rather singular confirmation to it. We say nothing about the accuracy of the theory, but if "the experience of the last three years," as described by our contemporary, isn't directly and favorably in point, we think it would puzzle him or anybody else to find an "experience" that is.

> A Washington letter says that the scheme of colonization sketched by Hon. Eli Thayer in his speech in the House is not a dreamy speculation but a reality. Measures of the most practical kind have been already adopted for carrying it out. An association has been formed for colonizing Nicaragua with industrious Americans, not fighters, but workers. It is stated that Hon. E. Corning, of Albany, has consented to accept the chairmanship or presidency of the association; that several thousand applications have been made for passage to Central America under the auspices of the company, and that the minister from Nicaragua, Gen. Irizarri, has signified his approval of the enterprise. What Nicaragua wants is men of the European race who will renovate her civilization, and who will respect her

> It is proposed to test whether the high lands of Central America can be cultivated by free white labor; whether sugar, cocoa, and coffee can be profitably produced within the tropics by white men. If they can be, the problem of the Americanization of the great region between Mexico and Darien may be considered solved. Those States will, at the proper period, apply for admission to the Union.

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] GOLD ISLAND. BY FRANK MYRTLE.

All nature was silent in death-like repose, The fairies had crept in the heart of the ro

And the tears of the night were on meadow and hill (She was weeping because she was lonely and chill), And were sparkling and bright for the mon was on hi And the stars were as diamonds set in the sky, ... When I crept from my room to inhale the fresh air; And to muse on the scene so bewitchingly fair.

My soul was all tremulous with its delight, As I mused on the scene in the stillness of night, And my fancy was roving o'er present and past, When a shadow my beautiful vision o'ercast, And I sighed for a home in some far distant sphere Where a poet might realize all he dreams here, When a murmur arose from the wood and the stream. And my soul was entranced in a glorious dream.

There was one by my side like an angel of old. His eyes were as fire, his tres es were gold, And his voice was as soft as the whispering breeze His robe was a rainbow besprinkled with stars And his chariot and coursers as brilliant as Mars, So bewild'ring my senses with glory so near, That I gazed with delight and yet trembled with fear.

He saw my confusion and instantly smiled,
When my heart was in raptures surpassingly wild,
Then he said—"I was passing and heard you complain
That the pleasures of earth were so transient and vain
That you sighed for a home in some far distant sphere, Where a poet might realize al. he dreams here, And I came to conduct you to a world you will deem More lovely by far than a poet's wild dream.'

Then he spoke to his coursers and gave me his hand, And we sped like a meteor o'er ocean and land, Till forest and ocean were mingled in one. And shone like a pearl in the rays of the I looked earthward again, it was only a star, And paler it grew as it glimmered afar, And I wondered a planet as wicked as this

Before us lay Mars with his deep rudy light, But we left him at least ten degrees to the right, For I learned from my guide that the cause of his hue Was the sunlight essaying to force its way through Dense masses of vapor, like rillars of smoke, In which the bright rays were discolored and broke, And I cared not to enter, so onward we prest To a world that could offer both pleasure and rest.

The asteroids now were around us awhile, And illumined our pathway for many a mile. And far to the left we discovered three m Which had never been seen by a mortal before: It was thought they were fragments of one mighty sphere Which was broken to pieces, but how was not clear; But I learned from my guide they were made as they are And that each, in his orbit, at first was a star.

Our coursers sped on as I took a survey Of the beautiful worlds that illumined our way-There was Jupiter near us and myriads more, Lying far in the distance not dreamed of before; But here Saturn was near us, and there I would land, So my guide gave the signal by waving his hand, Which was seen and returned, when they lowered their wings.

The inhabitants viewed me, at first, with surprise, And were anxious to know why I came in disguise. But they soon were informed of the place of my birth, And that wings were not worn by the people of earth;

When they said they remembered, long since, from that That Elijah and Enoch once made there call, And their names were recorded, but so long it had been

They conducted us then to a fragrant bower On the outermost ring, where we talked for an hour About our planet and then of their rings, When our coursers directed their fiery wings To Hesperides straight, where the poets reside. In a planet astronomers never discried, But is known to the angels, wherever they roam, I believe, as "Gold Island," the poet's wild home.

They expected no other would ever be seen.

We arrived there at length, it was truly sublime. The perfection of beauty was there in its prime; In the forest and flower, the mead and the rill, In the song of the bird, in the valley and hill, Perfection, I'm sure, could find nothing amiss, 'Twas an island of gold in an ocean of bliss, And a beautiful being now welcomed me in, More glorious than any I ever had seen.

Each wing was a rainbow, each hair a gold thread, And a wreath of bright stars formed a crown for her head; Her radiant face was surpassingly fair, For each fold was retained in its place with a star.

It was Ella, sweet Ella, for whom I had sighed For many a wearisome year since she died; But my bliss was so great in the midst of these charms, With my long missing Ella once more in my arms. That I woke and heard naught but the murmuring stream And I wept when I found it was only a dream.

One of the Admirals of the Ottoman navy named Mehemet Pasha, accompanied by four other functionaries, is on his way to the United States via France and England, with a view of constructing a three-decker for the Sultan. This ship is to be built and her guns made for her in the United States, and when finished a steam 74 or frigate will be sent hence for her. The Pasha is a fine looking man, and will make a favorable impression in the United States. It is supposed that the ship will be built in New York.

SMIDT & Co.'s TOBACCO CIRUULAR .- These gentlemen have issued with their monthly circular, a sliding scale, showing at a glance the fluctuations of prices of Kentucky tobacco in this market for each month for the past seven years. It is beautifully gotten up. It was lithographed by Hart, Mapother, & Co., of this city. We see from it that prices of tobacco were as low in 1852 and 1854 as they now are.

A lawyer who went from Fort Wayne to Legonier, the other day, to endeavor to obtain the release of the men lately arrested in that place on a charge of counterfeiting, was looked on as an accomplice, and was arrested and confined with his supposed confederates. After two or three days imprisonment, he was liberted, and glad to get off with unstreatched neck. The number of countefeiters arrested by the people is twenty-eight.

A SEDUCER SHOT .- A Mr. Hardesty, residing in Boone county, Ky., shot a neighbor Saturday night, killing him instantly. Our informant was unable to give the name of the deceased. It is alleged that Mr. Hardesty was provoked to the deed by the seduction of a member of his family by the deceased.

A bill has passed the Alabama Legislature providing for annual sessions of that body.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river was still falling yesterday, but we may easonably anticipate a speedy rise from the quantity of snow and rain which has fallen during the last twenty-four hours. Last evening there were 7 feet 3 inches water in the canal by the mark. The ground was covered with snow to the depth of an inch vesterday morning. The rain soon made it disappear.

For New Orleans .- We need only mention that the Diana, Capt. Sturgeon, will leave for New Orleans to-day. The D. is unsurpassed in elegance of accommodations. Capt. Sturgeon, Mr. Smith, Mr. Forsee, and Mr. Thompson are all model officers in their respective spheres.

The E. H. Fairchild will arrive to-day and leave for New Orleans to-morrow evening.

For Memphis -The Southerner is the packet for Memphis this evening. The S. and her officers stand deservedly high in public estimation. She has pleasant and finely furnished cabins and every appointment to render a trip luxurious. Capt. Triplett commands and Mr. J. B. Archer is the chief

We are indebted to Messrs. Frank. Smith and McMichael for late Memphis papers and copies of the manifest and memorandum.

For St. Louis.-Those going to St. Louiz and the West will bear in mind that the splendid steamer J. H. Dickey, Capt. Able, will leave for the headwaters of the Missouri river to-day. The Dickey is a bran new boat, and has spacious and elegantly furnished cabins. Mr. J. K. Moody, a gentleman favorably known to all hereabouts, has charge of her

The Telegraph No. 3 is the mailboat for Cincinnati, and the Emma Dean is the Carrollton packet.

The St. Louis Republican of Sunday says:

The river at this point was stationary yesterday. There is full eight feet in the channel out to Cairo We have no news of importance from any of the upper rivers. There is four feet in the channel of the Missouri to St. Joseph, five feet in the channel of the Missouri to St. Joseph, five feet in the channel of the Illinois, and five feet in the Mississippi to Keokuk. Business was rather lively on the levee yesterday, and the City of Memphis and Planet left for New Creans with good cargoes. The Creans left for Orleans with good cargoes. The Cremona left for Keokuk and the Sioux City for the Missouri river with an excellent trip of freight and people. The Sam Young and Progress departed for the Illinois river, and the Martha Putnam for the Ohio.

Dr. Mackay.-Dr. Mackay's lecture in the Maonic Temple last night excited deep admiration. and was received throughout with loud and warn applause. It is indeed a vigorous and beautiful production. Graceful and impressive as a whole, it rises not unfrequently to eloquence and poetry. Especially is this true of the part dedicated to the defence of the song-writer, which, we need not say abounds in thoughts of striking beauty and felicity. The poet vindicates his craft almost as nobly by precept as he does by example.

Dr. Mackay's delivery, if sometimes lacking in spirit, is always intelligible, and nearly always pleasing. The quiet ease of his manner comports well with the dignity and grace of his matter. Altogether his lecture was a marked success. It did not rudely dissipate or dissipate at all the bright ideal Mackay of the audience.

The distinguished poet concluded his lecture, as is his wont, by reciting two original poems. The first, entitled The Primrose, and founded on a touching incident in Australia, which he related, is, we think, as exquisite as anything he has produced. The other poem, which we have seen in the newspapers, is very charming. The reading of these two fine elicited the most rapturous applause. Dr. Mackay leaves for St. Louis this morning. He is accompanied in his Western and Southern tour by Col. Fuller, the gifted, genial, and versatile editor of the New York Mirror. We hope the staid people of the prairies and the proud ones of the savannas will think none the less of Dr. Mackay for traveling over the country with so dashing and brilliant a creature as "Belle Brittain."

THE UTAH EXPEDITION .- It is reported, says the New York Sun, that the last official advices from the Utah expedition are so discouraging that the Secretary of War refuses to allow them to be made Whether this report be true or not, it is certain that the expedition suffered severely during the latter part of its march to Fort Bridger, and that its condition there is such as to excite the utmost anxiety for its preservation during the winter. The Mormons, it is well ascertained are determined upon offering a stubborn resistance to the advance of the troops into Salt Lake Valley; and this determination will probably compel the expedition to pass the whole winter in the mountains, with but poor protection from the severity of the weather. We hope that Government will employ all its energies in forwarding, at the earliest possible time, succor and reninforcements. When does Gen. Scott start for the Pacific?

JEFFERSONVILLE FERRY. - Mr. Mayburry, the superintendent of the ferry, called on us yesterday, and stated that he is determined hereafter to give every facility to the railroad passengers and the public in crossing the river. The cause of the ferry boat not crossing on Friday night was that the passengers, of whom there were only five, did not show a disposition to wait until steam could be raised on the boat.

SINGULAR CASE. - A mulatto slave was arre-SINGULAR CASE.—A muletto slave was arrested at the town of Brunswick, in this State, on the 11th inst. under rather peculiar circumstances. The boy is the property of a Mr. Ruggles, of Alabama, and ran off from his master about six years ago. He made his way to Pittsburg, Pa., where, assuming the name of Geo. W. Ferris, he passed himself off as a white man. This he was enabled to do the more readily because his complexion betrays his African extraction only on the closest scrutiny. Being a superior bricklayer, he cut quite a flourish at Pittsburg, and, it is alleged, actually married a white woman in that city.

It seems, however, that a gentleman who had emigrated to Pittsburg from Alabama soon after George's arrival, saw and recognized him through all his disguise. He at once resolved to restore him to his master if possible; but knowing the difficulty of capturing a fugitive of that description in Pittsburg, concluded to wait until he could take "snap judgment on the aspiring darkey. When, therefore, about three months ago, George, emboldened by his success at "playing white" and losing all fear of detection, actually emigrated to Brunswick, Mo, it was not long before information was conveyed to Alabama.—Lexangton (Mo) Express. at the town of Brunswick, in this State, on the 11th

A NOTHER APPRENTICE WANTED AT HAYES, CRAIG, & CO.'S.

The New York Express has the following leter from Washington, dated on Friday;

Minnesota and Kansas.—The Setate adjourned over for the week rather than take up the Minnesota bill, which was warmly pressed by Senator Douglas, chairman of the Committee on Territories. The las, chairman of the Committee on Territories. The bill looks to the admission of Minnesota at once. Her constitution is here, signed by every member of the convention, Republican and American. Her Senators are also here, and their rights so far nullified by the voice of Congress. The delay is caused by the disposition to put Kansas and the Lecompton constitution through at the same time. This is resulted as an outrage by Douglas, Shields, and many from the West and North. So untenable a position will have to be abandoned.

The Lecompton constitution will go into Congress.

from the West and North. So untenable a position will have to be abandoned.

The Lecompton constitution will go into Congress, if not at once, early next week. It is the Pandora box. The President is persistent and obstinate again, after a little faltering last week. He wants Lecompton to begin with, and holds that, after that, the people may wisely be left to themselves. The recent violence, and the official attempts to sustain it, has, meanwhile, only intensified the opposition.

The army bill received a double blow yesterday, first from Toombs of Georgia, acting in conjunction with Hunter of Virginia, who is understood to be opposed to any permanent increase; and also from the American and Republic n side of the Chamber. Mr. Bell gave the bill and system proposed a very heavy blow. Mr. Fessenden of Maine, also. The four regiments increase is dead. So the increase of rank and file, and of companies, in the bill of the military committee, except as a temporary expedient. The new recruits must be abandoned after the war is over; and many here favor only volunteers, raised by the States, for the temporary u-es required. Millions of Government patronage depends upon the plan formally to be agreed upon, and hence the strength of the jobbing lobby.

The deficiency bill got through the Committee of the Whole to-day. It will pass at once, and go to the Senate—and, in some three weeks, the $700,000 for paper, binding, and printing will probably be paid.

General Scott.—The purpose of Congress as demonstrated in the vote of the Senate not to add five new regiments to the army, is the cause of the re-linquishment of the purpose of the War Depart-ment not to send the General to California. Until it is known what Congress will do, the Administra-tion will do nothing more than to sustain its present force.

AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON. [Special Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 27, 1858. Gov. Foote-An Incident at an Evening Party-Western Improvements, &c.

Everybody has heard of Gov. Foote, Ex-Senator a pistor in his name to shoot down those who dared to differ from him in orinior! He was a terrible fellow during the discussion of the compromise measures of 1850. But time has softened his asperity; and, as a case in point, it may here be mentioned that he has waited upon Senator Seward, and acknowledged that he did him injustice, and begged his pardon. "Honest confession," in this instance, may "be good for the send!" or the soul."

The Ex-Senator, or Governor, or General (whatever may be his honorary title now-a-days) was among the guests, recently, at Secretary Cass's party. The latter took great pleasure, during the evening, to show his many and valuable pictures, sent to him from home by his son, the present Minister to the Holy S e. "Here is a very fine painting," remarked the General Secretary, "it is that of Thomas a 'B-cket, said to be two hundred years old—a very fine painting, indeed." The distinguished guests took a nearer view, and the imperfect in vistion put on their glasses: and all had a good, long. poems, which, by the way, was done excellently, ion put on their glasses; and all had a good, long, earnest look at the picture. The Secretary asked whether it did not resemble Robert J. Walker, and whether it did not resemble Robert J. Walker, and received a response in the affirmative. Then spoke the formerly valiant Foo'e. "Allow me," said he, while his bald head seemed to glow with the polished ideas and burning wisdom within, "to draw a parallel. Admit that Walker resembles a Becket. Now, I wish to say that as those who slaughtered Becket were overwhelmed, so will the slayers of Walker meet a just retribution!" Secretary Cass shrugged his shoulders, and the entire cluster found it convenient to separate; one portion of it to reflect upon nient to separate; one portion of it to reflect upon the "parallel;" and the other to enjoy the luxury of Gov. Foote's "hit" at the conduct of the administration against Ex-Gov. Robert J. Walker. I have the incident from a distinguished gentleman who was present on the interesting occasion. Foote could not have meant that Walker's bones.

Senator Pugh, of Ohio, has given notice of his intention to introduce a bill for the protection of vessels engaged in the navigation of Lake Erie, and a bill to authorize the States of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois to enter into agreement or compact between themselves, and with other States interested in the navigation of the Ohio river and its tributaries for navigation of the Omo river and its tributants for the improvement of such navigation, and to levy duties on tonnage for that purpose. WASHINGTON REPORTS -The Administration are in possession of highly important information relative to Mexican affairs, and also respecting the direction of Cuba and Spain is regard to Mexico. The exiling convulsion in Mexico will probably result in its disintegration. For a long time it has been in contemplation by Mexican leaders to separate the northern provinces of Mexico from the central government and establish the independent republic of Sierra Madre. The present Governor of Monterey, General Vidaurri, a very able and vigorous man, bas, it is said, cherished this scheme, and the present is a fit time for carrying it out. If Spain should persist in hostilities against Mexico, it will tend to complicate the whole matter, as far as the United States are concerned. The present Minister of the United States is about to return, having asked and received leave. What may be the policy of the Administration in regard to Mexico is unknown, for in his annual message the President was entirely silent on the subject.

Gen. Scott, according to some statements, has postponed, and, according to others, has reconsidered his purpose of going to California, and the project is definitely relinquished. The intention was predicated on the expectation of Congress authorizing the increase of regiments asked for by the Presideat, so that the force on the Atlantic might be transferred to the Pacific, the vacuum being supplied by new levies. The adverse indications by the vote in the Senate on Friday and the sentiment of the House led to the abandonment of the policy.

The receipts from customs do not materially increase, ranging in New York from $200,000 to $300,-000 per week. The government obligations are now chiefly discharged in paper money, Treasury notes. It will not be difficult to get off in this way the six millions of dollars already printed. Three per cent. however is a very small interest, and some difficulty is found in calculating it. It is suggested to adopt a simpler mode, and to make the interest one cent a day on each $100 note, and in proportion for those of larger denominations.

ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—A letter from George Saward, Esq., secretary of the Atlantic Telegraph Company, dated London, Jan. 15, says: "Our arrangements here for the completion of the work we have in hand are progressing satisfactorily, and I trust and believe that our next attempt will be crowned with success. The machinery is being overhauled under the direction of British and American engineers, and experiments will be carefully tried before sailing next time, with a view to meet every known and anticipated difficulty. The British Government has again granted us the use of ships, and the manufacture of new cable to supply the place of that which was lost is going on satisfactorily. It is at present intended to take out 2,800 miles of cable, being forty-five miles more than was thought sufficient last time."

NEBRASKA LEGISLATURE.—The Nebraska Legislature have enlivened their proceedings by expelling Mr. Robertson, of the Omaha Nebraskian, from the hall where he was acting as reporter. He has, it seems, reviewed the political history of some of the members. One of the gravest charges against him was calling one of the members "a small potato!"

We understand that the Florence fragment of the Legislature adjourned on the 17th, upon the arrival of Gov. Richardson-the other wing, at Omaha, is probably still in session.

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL'S ESCAPE.—The Rev. Dr. Duff, in his last letter from India, mentions the following remarkable escape of Sir Colin Campbell on his march to the relief of Lucknow:

Sir Colin and his staff, unaccompanied by any escort, in the neighborhood of the river Saone, came suddenly on two companies of the mutinied 32d, who had recently killed their own officers. They were then in the act of crossing the trunk road, with fourteen elephants, two guns, and a small body of sowars, or irregular native cavalry. Sir Colin's garry, or traveling carriage, was ahead of all the others; and although the native coachman warned him of the danger, he still pushed on, till an aid-de-camp directed his attention to the mutineers crossing the road at a distance of not more than 500

At first the chief would not go back, but got on the top of his garry with a glass; and only when he saw some cavalry sent to cut off his retreat did he thirk it proper to stop. Had they been a few hundred yards further on, the whole party must have been cut off to a man, since, having no escort, the odds opposed to them was so tremendous as to render effectual resistance impossible. As it was their der effectual resistance impossible. As it was, their coming up with such apparent boldness, so very near to the rebels, evidently soon impressed the latter with the conviction that Sir Colin and his party formed only the advance guard of an aveng-ing column; and so, after a little hesitation, they made off as fast as they could, elephants, guns, and all, while Sir Colin and his staff instantly turned back and retraced their steps for ten miles, till they came up with a bullock-train party of soldiers. What a narrow escape! What a providential interposition! A few minutes sconer, and the brave Sir Colin, with his whole staff, would have been igusly butchered.

THE KOSSUTH FAMILY IN AMERICA,-A writer in the New York Journal of Commerce, speaking of the Kossuth family in the United States, says:

The daughters of the admirable Madame Meslen-vi, the Nightingale of the Hungarian war hospitals, have been most generously cared for by Mrs. Cruger, of our city, and, under superior teachers, have grown up to sensible and accomplished womanhood, such as would have rejoiced the spirit of their departed mother, who exclaimed on her death-bed that she could now expire in peace, since her children would be in a better condition than if she had

Her eldest son, a graduate of Union College, is in the engineer department of tale navy-yard at Brooklyn; the second is in the navy agency at New York. They are gentlemanly, unxceptionable young men.

CAPT. JOHN TRAVIS .- Porter's Spirit of the Times has the following complimentary notice of this gen-

John Travis has established an "institution" at Louisville, Kv., in which to "teach the young idea how to shoot"—pistols. We hear that his gallery is patronized by the most respectable members of the community. He has also established galleries at New Orleans and St. Louis, and will probably open one here in the spring. Having no superior, if he has an equal in this country, it would not be a bad speculation to send him to Europe. There is no more chance of his breaking down, or being badly ridden, or dying suddenly of colic, like our American horses in England, than there is of his being struck by lightning.

APPALLING ACCIDENT—A Man Slowly Roasted-One of the most shocking accidents it has ever been our lot to record occurred two days since at Mountain Asb, South Wales, to a man named David Thomas, who earned his bread as a lime burner at some lime kilns bel nging to the Navigation Coal Company. Having drawn the lower part of the kiln and got out about a cartload of lime, he thought that the burning stones on the top of the perfected lime did not descend as they ought, and he asked his wife, who happened to be with him at the time, if she would o to the top of the kiln, and inform him whether ey had sunk or not. The wife went to the top as requested, and seeing that the stones had not sunk, but still preserved a level surface, she called out, "they have not moved a bit." He joined her at the kiln, and, taking up a long iron bar which was kept there for the purpose of thrusting among the stones when any hitch occurred, he went toward the mouth of the kiln. His wife begged him to keep back from so dangerous a position, at the same time reminding him that if the stones should slip he would be drawn with them into the kiln. He said, "Oh, never fear; I will take care of that;" and, disregarding his wife's repeated supplication, he stepped forward to the top of the kiln, and commenced thrusting at the stones with his iron her. For a few moments the mass remained firm and

For a few moments the mass remained in an and resisted his attempts to disturb it; but, upon his increasing the violence of his thrusts, they began to descend, and, as his unbappy wife had predicted, to draw him with them. As he descended slowly, the fiery stones closed around him, until at length the lower part of his body became completely embedded in the burning mass. His shrieks were heart-piercing, and his agonized wife endeavored to pull The state of the kiln made this a work of difficulty and of the greatest danger, and when at length she did seize his hand and endeavored to drag him out, she found to her horror that the burnt flesh yielded to her touch and came off in pieces, rendering it impossible for her to obtain any hold.

The horrors of her situation can be better imag ined than described. At length her cries attracted the attention of a number of men who were standing near an adjacent colliery, and who lost no time in repairing to the spor, in the hope of being able to render some assistance. It happened that one of Mr. Crawshay's boats was passing at the time, and the boatman having laid-to to gaze at the accident, a man named Hobbs ran to the boat, seized the boat rope, returned with it to the top of the kiln, and was preparing to throw it around the body of the unhappy Thomas, who was still slowly burn-ing and writing in the most intense agony, when the boatman, David Jenkins, ran after him and took away the rope, saying it was useless to burn it, as he could let them have an old one!

He deliberately walked back to the boat, leaving the poor sufferer in the midst of the fire, picked out an old piece of rope, threw it to the men on shore, and then went off with his boat, without attempting to offer the slightest assistance. Hobbs, and one or to offer the slightest assistance. Hobbs, and one or two others, at length contrived to throw the rope around the poor sufferer's body; but, alas! they found that they could not succeed in getting him out. At length some one suggested that an iron bar should be placed under him to lift him out. This was done, and the frightfully charred body of the still living man, some portions of which had been literally burned to cinder, was got out. Of course human strength could not survive such suffering, and he died.

FURTHER CRUELTY TO THE PETERS NEGRO GIRL. On Saturday evening last, about eight o'clock, Officer Quigley arrested on the levee, between Locust and Olive streets, a naked negro girl, about twenty years of age. Her appearance gave evidence that she had been badly beaten. Her back was covered she had been badly beaten. Her back was covered with fresh and bloody stripes, into which salt and flour had been sprinkled to dry them up and prevent suppuration. The officer took her to the police office, where she was furnished with an old blanket to cover her nakedness and wounds. She belonged to Mrs. L. Peters, living on Sixth street, between Franklin avenue and Wash street. She said she had been terribly whipped, and that she was trying to escape from her cruel mistress.

This is the same girl, we believe, whose brutal

This is the same girl, we believe, whose brutal treatment was recently made the subject of judicial investigation before the criminal court of this city, which resulted in a verdict against Mr. and Mrs. Peters, of $1,000 fine and one year's imprisonment for each, from which judgment they appealed, and are now under bonds of $2,000 each. Since that time they have continued to abuse the girl with as much barbar ty as before. The neighbors say that, to keep outsiders from witnessing further cruelties, the cracks of the fence surrounding the yard have been nailed up, and that the girl is now taken down into the cellar out of sight, where she is subjected to punishments and torments equal to any she has previously endured.

By some means she escaped the house, and was looking out doubtless for some chance to get across the river when arrested. We understand from the Anzieger that some of our more benevolent Germans have taken the matter in hand with the intention of raising the necessary money to purchase the poor creature from her present owners. Public opinion is said to be setting so strongly against them that they will be compelled to give her up if her value in money is offered them. St. Louis Democrat.

DEATH OF MAJOR JOHN P. GAINES .- Late adof the Oregon apprise us of the John P. Gaines, ex-Governor of that Territory.

Major Gaines was formerly a citizen of Boone county, Ky. When war was declared to exist with Mexico, he was among the first to volunteer his services to his country. He was commissioned a Major, and with his command promptly proceeded to the scene of strife. Under circumstances which do not reflect even a shadow upon his sagacity or courage, he was taken prisoner by the enemy, and only released in time to share in the closing brilliant exploits of the army under scott.

released in time to share in the closing brilliant exploits of the army under Scott.

In 1847, while absent in Mexico, he was elected to Congress from this (the tenth) district. He served two sessions. In 1850, President Fillmore tendered him the Governorship of Oregon. He accepted the office, and at once made his arrangements to proceed with his family to the scene of his duties. From that time the record of his private life is a mournful one. On the voyage to his new home two lovely and accomplished daughters fell victims to the yellow fever. Not long after his arrival in Oregon he was doomed to encounter the heaviest of all afflictions to which man is subject—the sudden death of a faithful wife. This stunning event was speedof a faithful wife. This stunning event was speedily followed by the death of his son Richard, a young gentleman of engaging manners and great promise. And now the sad record is closed by the announcement of his own decease.

THE WINTER TWENTY YEARS AGO .- We have The Winter Twenty Years Ago.—We have noticed many comparisons between the years 1837–8 and 1857–8 in financial and monetary matters, but more can be presented in regard to the season. It was then, as now, feared that the winter would much increase the physical suffering among the poorer classes; but the evil was averted by a winter as mild and as pleasant as the present one. Fuel and provisions, such as coal, wood, and flour, fell in price. The records inform us that the month of December, 1837, was very mild and open, no frost in the ground; Christmas pleasant and warm, and so continuing until the end of the year.—No snow for sleighing, except on the 10th and 11th of December, and then for but a short time. January, 1838, twenty years ago, was a remarkable of December, and then for but a short time. January, 1838, twenty years ago, was a remarkable winter month; the weather, excepting the last two days, was nearly as mild as an Indian summer. No snow fell during the month, the thermometer averaging at 2 P. M. at forty degrees through the month; and the succeeding months contradicted many wise remarks, such as we often hear, that "a warm winter brings a cold spring." "winter never many wise remarks, such as we often hear, that "a warm winter brings a cold spring," "winter never rots in the sky," &c. February was cold, with little snow, there being fourteen clear days. March had but two snow-storms and much mud. April was that two snow-storms and much mud. April was grees above that of January. The Hudson river opened and closed three times during the season, the last opening being about the 18th of March. Other rivers opened about the same time.

SHAMEFUL NEGLECT .- An awful scene was pre sented this morning to the numerous passers-by—a poor woman lying dead. Recally covered with mud and almost in the middle of the Bardstown road, near the Two-Mile House. She was seen there as early as 5 o'clock this morning, yet no one had notified the Coroner up to the time when the writer saw har. AN EXPENSIVE JOKE. — The day before New Year's two gentlemen, well known among the citi-zens of Brooklyn as "men of means," named Theo-dore Polhemus and Wilson Hunter, met at a saloon in Fulton street, when Polhemus asked Hunger loon in Fulton street, when Polhemus asked Hungar if he was going to make calls on new year's. Hunter replied that he had intended to make calls, but had no coachman, and in a boasting manner said that he would give five hundred for a good looking coachman, at the same time saying to Polhemus, "Why don't you take the job; you are good looking and would make a spleadid coachman." Polhemus acknowledged the compliment, and said he would serve for that sum. Hunter then told him to be on hand at two o'clock the next day ready for service. hand at two o'clock the next day ready for service, but demanded that if he failed to perform his agree-ment he should forfeit a basket of wine. The con-ment he should forfeit a basket of wine. The conditions were agreed to, and they parted.

The next day Mr. Hunter, who resides in Pierrepont street, was at his house about the time agreed upon; with him most of the party who were witnesses to the bet of the day before, anxious to see the denouement. A few moments before two, Hunter reminded the guests of the bet, and remarked that it would be fun if Polhemus did not keep his engagement. A moment afterwards Polhemus was announced, and appeared, whip in hand, ready for service. He asked Hunter where his coach was, when the reply was made that he had none. Polhemus offered his own, stating that he was ready to drive according to agreement. Hunter then exdrive according to agreement. Hunter then excused himself, stating that he would not go out except in his own coach. Polhemus offered to get the best team that could be had in the city, but Hunter still insisted that he would not go out. Upon that Polhemus replied that he supposed his services would not be required. would not be required.

Hunter replied, "certainly not." "In that case," said Polhemus, "I will take a glass of wine. I came here as a coachman and am now your equal, came here as a coachman and am now your equal, but shall demand payment for my services according to contract. If I had failed in performing my part of the agreement you would have exacted the penalty, and I now demand the $500 you agreed to give me for my services." Hunter laughed, the wine was drank, and the company parted.

No suit has been brought for the $500, but it will be paid by Hunter. Both parties are well known as being wealthy. The joke was a dear one to the party making the wager, but, as he is able to stand it, it will do no harm and may tend to make him more cautious in future how he employs coachmen. WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

There is reason to believe that the Cass and Yrizarri treaty has totally failed. The Nicaraguan government have not even considered it. They objected to it, as we learn, on the ground that Mr. Yrizarri had no authority from Nicaragua to make it. Mr. Yrizarri had received credentials from the Rivas government, but none from that of Martinez. Besides, all the other Central American States with all the other Central American States with which Nicaragua is in alliance are hostile to the treaty, for the reason that it gives the United States a right to protect the transit by military force. reaty, in fact gives the United States the right to occupy the Isthmus.

AN ALABAMA CONSTABLE AFTER ET AL -An Alabama correspondent of the Mobile Advertiser, justly proud of the good things of his native State, writes to that paper as follows:

A certain fat constable in the county of C-State of Alabama, once received a writ from a Justice of the Peace, known as Josh M—c. The case was R—vs. D—et al. The good coastable, who was more famed for his honesty than literary attainments, was sorely puzzled at et al. So, after keeping the writ for a week, he entered the Justice's office with much any introducted on his countenance and with much anxiety depicted on his countenance, and saluted Squire Josh with this exclamation: "Josh, who's the et al? I've been looking for him all over the county for a week, and I can't find him. I don't believe there's any sich man in C-

THE "PROPHET'S FAMILY."-A correspondent of the Missouri Republican writes that last summer he was at Nauvoo and conversed with Mr. Bitoman, who is married to Joe Smith's widow. He says:

I sat at the table with the family, consisting of Mr. Bitoman and wife, and three sons of Joe Smith, the eldest about 23 or 24; the second about 20; the third a lad of some 12 or 13 years. From Mr. Bitoman I learned that not one of the family believed in Mormonism, and that his wife, formerly Mrs. Smith, had always been opposed to it, as well as the boys. Mrs. Bitoman is a musculine, intelligent looking lady, of 45 or 47 years. She is a native of New York.

Cool Clearfield Contcalities.—As everybody knows, our county jail is a great institution, and occasionally the 'boarders' indulge in some rich performances. On Saturday evening, James Curly and Wm. Miller, who are serving out sentences of imprisonment, having been allowed the privilege of going into the jail yard, scaled the wall and vamosed. Miller left a note, informing the sheriff that he had gone home to attend to some affairs, and that he would be back the next evening. Curly coolly had gone nome to attend to some affairs, and that he would be back the next evening. Curly coolly moved around "to see what was going on in town," until about 9 o'clock, when he returned to the jail, and, all the doors being locked, had to rouse the sheriff to get in. On Monday evening Miller also came back.—Clearfield (Pa.) Journal.

We would respectfully call the attention of the public to a MARINE CHRONOMETER placed in our window, showing the exact time. It is entirely of American manufacture, and has been exhibited at the World's Fair in Paris in competition with the best London and French Chronometers, and also at the World's Fair in New York, and in every instance has received the highest premium for unequalled workmanship and correct time-keeping.

To our watch department we have secured the services of Mr. Ed. Helvig, of New York. Mr. H. can execute any kind of watch-work fully equal to Jurgensen, Frodsham, Adams, or any of the first London or Swiss makers.

In many fine Watches that are Broken parts are substituted greatly inferior to the originat, the customer paying the full price for a perfect piece of work. The Watch apparently performs well afterward for a while, but is more imperfect and less valuable than originally.

He advocated the raising of soldiers to meet all necessities and emergencies, saying they were not more expensive than regular troops, and were decidedly more preferable. Four additional regiments were raised some years ago, the expense of which was probably something like the twenty millions now deficient in the Tressury. LATER FROM MEXICO.—The revolution initiated by Comonfort's coup d'etat is in full progress, and the whole country is in a worse condition of anar-chy and confusion if possible than ever. The Govchy and confusion if possible than ever. The Governor of Vera Cruz, by authority of the State Legislature, has issued a decree declaring that the State of Vera Cruz resumes her sovereignty, without prejudice, however, to her relations with her sister States, when the legal federal authority shall be established. The decree declares that, being menaced by a foreign invation, it is the duty of every citizen to take up arms in defense of the national independence and honor, and requires every Mexican male citizen of the State between the ages of 17 and 40 years to enrol himself for the public service. Another decree of the Governor declares formally that "the State of Vera Cruz leagues herself with those of Oajaca and Puebia for the re-establishment of the legal authority."

of Oajaca and Puebia for the re-establishment of the legal authority."

The Governor of Tamaulipas publishes two decrees of the Legislature of that State. It is declared in the first that Tamaulipas does not second the plan of Tacubaya. The second decree contains four articles. By the first the central government is disavowed and the State of Tamaulipas resumes her sovereignty. By the second the Governor is authorized to organize, arm, and have at his disposal for the service of the State the National Guard. The third article requires the Governor to render an account to the Legislature of the use he makes of his new powers, and the fourth provides that the decree shall remain in force until the restoration of the proper federal authority.

El Progreso doubts a rumor that Comonfort had on the 11th inst. resigned the Presidency into the hands of Juarez, on the ground that an order from Comonfort dated the 12th had been published, declaring the capital in a state of slege.

El Progreso makes up from the papers of the capital a sort of journal of recent occurrences in that city, from which we translate a few of the most in-the city and proclaiming the plan of Tacubaya) "pronounced," disavowing Comonfort because he "pronounced," disavowing Comonfort becau e he had not carried into effect the plan of Tacubaya according to their ideas. It was said that part of them wished to proclaim Zuloaga President, and others were in favor of Santa Anna. They were fortified in the citadel, in the convents of San Angustin, Santa Dowings and et other points in the city. On Santo Domingo, and at other points in the city. On the 11th, President Comonfort attempted to enter Santo Domingo and and San Augustin, but was not permitted to do so. He caused Gen. Zoloaga to be arrested in the palace, on surpcion of being connected with the revolt of his brigade, but the General protested that he was innocent and was released on parole of his word of honor for his good conduct. Componfort had gathered at the release about 2 000 Comonfort had gathered at the palace men and a large quantity of artillery and munitions

On the 15th, a column of the forces at the palace was fired upon and repulsed with a loss of eight men killed and wounded.

The most violicitive fury characterizes this parti-sen warfare. A number of the Comonfort faction sion of a man whose warehouse they had just sacked, and hung him because he had been a captein in the National Guards and distinguished for his liberal ideas. In retaliation the Liberals seized and hung a captain of the Government troops named

At last accounts the pronunciados in San Augustin were completely beleagured by Comonfort's troops. Four pieces of artillery had been brought to bear upon them, and after firing all night had done some injury to the convent.

All foreigners had hoisted upon their houses the flags of their respective countries.

We find nothing from other parts of the Republic in the few papers we received last night, but shall probably be able to give a better idea of the condition of the country when we get our files.

THE RESEARCHES OF TOWNSEND GLOVER.-We were gratified by the opportunity offered by his late visit to this city to make the acquaintance of Mr. Glover, who has for several years, in the employ of the Government, been devoting himself to the study of the insects injurious to vegetation at the South.

The results of his labors will be of immense benefit to the country. He pursues it with the enthusiasm of a devotee to science. While here we endeavored to impress upon him the importance of giving some attention to this section of the country, with a view of studying not only its insects, but also its fruits, esculent roots, &c., and adding to his already valuable collection of model:. We are glad to find that such men as Dr. J. A. Warder and R. Buchanan, of Ohio, entertain the same views in regard to its importance. We know they also desire Mr. Glover to devote his time as early as practicable to this section. No money ever appropriated by Congress was ever of more lasting benefit to the country or more economically expended than that voted to secure the services of Mr. Glover, and no part of the country presents greater claims in point of interest than the one whose claims we now urge. The annexed letters of Dr. Warder and Mr. Buchanan raquire no comments from us:

MR. T. GLOVER-Dear Sur:-Being an ardent student of pomology, I examined with great interest your collection of colored casts of fruits. I have never seen any representations of our fruits that were equal to them in beauty and correctness, and should consider them of the greatest value to the tree planter and pomologist. When completed, so as to represent all of the fruits of our country, the on at Washington will be a grand attraction to our fruit growers.

Having aided, as a committee of the United States Agricultural Society, in recommending the work to their attention as one of great national importance, and well deserving Government support, I was grat-ified to learn that such aid was voted, to enable you ified to learn that such aid was voted, to enable you to continue adding our Western fruits to your collection. So also those of the Southern States. I hope we may also hear that Congress has continued to aid you in this great work, for several seasons must elapse before you can expect to secure them all.

My full concurrence in the resolution adopted by the United States Agricultural Society is still entertained, and, as it is desirable that this work should be completed, it may be well to have the matter again presented to the public. The resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That this Society considers the collection follows: Resolved, That this Society considers the collection of a complete suite of imperishable fac similes of the various fruits and vegetables of our country a great desideratum for our national agriculture, and commend the purchase and completion of the collection of Mr. Glover to the favorable consideration of the Congress of the United States.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16, 1858. MR. T. GLOVER—Dear Str:—I heartily concur in the views of my friend Dr. Warder, in relation to your beautiful casts of fruits; and sincerely hope that Corgress may aid so useful an adjunct to the pomological branch of the agricultural interest of our country. CORN HUSKING TRESTLE—We have been making improvements in plowing our land and raising grain, we have had many improvements in raising corn, and not long since there was a machine got up for cutting up corn, and next to that a machine for tying the shocks; all very good, but we believe that there is nothing as yet said about a machine for husking shocked corn, so we will say something about that matter. First, we use the same grab hooks that nature has blessed us with, but we favor our back by using a 'ittle bench, which is easily carried along from one shock to another. It is made by putting two pieces of light scantling together, something like a ladder, then putting legs to it of sufficient height, so that when the corn is laid on the bench, a man can stand stra ght, and if the bench be 6 or 8 feet long, two men can husk at 't as well CORN HUSKING TRESTLE -We have been make be 6 or 8 feet long, two men can husk at 't as well as one. The advantages of the bench are these:

1st. A man can stand straight in place of stooping.

2d. The fodder is not in his way, as he draws it to him and leaves it on the bench separate from that which is not busked, and is not so likely to leave corn in the fodder. When the ground is muddy, he keeps his fodder clean and nice.

4th. H₂ can hu-k more in a day, because he stands straight, and has full use of his arms.

5th. And last, there is no patent on this invention
